Televised Watergate Hearings Continued

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Watergate committee resumed its televised hearings today in the face of the special prosecutor's opposition.

It heard convicted conspirator G. Gordon Liddy's former secretary tell how she typed wiretap logs, intelligence memos and a phony McGovern pass.

Sally J. Harmony testified for 90 minutes and said:

—She had not told friends she lied to the Watergate grand jury last year or been given a Florida trip as a reward by the Nixon re-election committee.

—She knew nothing that could implicate former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell in the Watergate scandal.

—Liddy, while at the Nixon committee, had periodically talked by telephone with such White House officials as counsel John Dean III; Egil Krogh, head of the so-called Plumbers investigation unit; Gordon Strachan, an aide to chief of staff H. R. Haldeman; and an official at Internal Revenue Service.

The IRS official she named was Roger V. Barth, deputy chief counsel, who had testified for Liddy as a character witness at Liddy's Watergate trial last winter.

Barth said in an interview he could not recall specific conversations with Liddy, but that "he might have called a couple of times about tax matters for the re-election committee."

—She did not know before the Watergate break-in that telephone logs she typed had come from tapped conversations, but that after the break-in, she helped destroy documents linked to the intelligence-gathering effort.

The special seven-senator panel decided at a closed meeting Tuesday morning:

—It will not delay its public hearings as requested by special prosecutor Archibald W. Cox.

—It will not seek to force Liddy's testimony at present. Liddy refused to be sworn in at a closed meeting with the committee and has not yet talked in the nearly one-year-old case. He is already serving one contempt sentence for his failure to answer questions even when offered immunity.

The panel also decided that some lesser witnesses would be weeded out so the hearings would move along more quickly.

In her testimony, Mrs. Harmony did not disclose the contents of transcripts she had typed. She conferred with her attorney each time such questions arose. Disclosure of that information has been forbidden by the U.S. Court of Appeals.

She told of notations that information she transcribed from other sources had come from agents called Ruby 1, Ruby 2 and Crystal. Mrs. Harmony said she didn't know who they were.

Mrs. Harmony told of typing transcripts on stationary labeled "Gemstone."

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., chairman of the Senate committee, began the session by announcing rejection of the Cox request. He said the panel had decided in executive session that "duty requires it to decline" the delay.

Ervin cited the Senate resolution ordering the investigation, and said his panel does not share the fear expressed by Cox that the courts might permit the guilty to go free because of the televised inquiry.

Furthermore, Ervin said, the committee believes there is a greater likelihood of fair Watergate trials in "an atmosphere of judicial calm" after the Senate investigators have completed their task.

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., concurred, and said the committee has a responsibility "to conduct the public business in public view."

And so, after a closed session that lasted more than an hour, the Watergate panel called Mrs. Harmony, secretary to Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy when he was counsel at the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President.

Mrs. Harmony, an attractive blonde in her early 40s, testified that she had typed intelligence memoranda and logs of telephone conversations for Liddy.

She said the name of R. Spencer Oliver, a Democratic official whose telephone was bugged by the Watergate crew, appeared on some of these logs. But she didn't disclose what was said in the bugged conversations because that would violate wiretapping laws.

Mrs. Harmony said the telephone logs were typed on special colored stationery that bore the word "Gemstone" across the top.

On other occasions, she recalled, she transcribed tape-recorded conversations, apparently between E. Howard Hunt and a spy he had planted inside Sen. George S. McGovern's presidential campaign headquarters. She said the questionand-answer interview dealt with goods and services for the Democratic national convention.

Robert Reisner, a GOP aide who worked under Jeb Stuart Magruder, once the No. 2 man in the Nixon campaign organization, also was scheduled to testify.

The committee, which has faced pressure to speed the appearances of major figures in the affair, canceled the scheduled appearance of H. A. Post, owner of the Washington printing firm that prepared "Gemstone" stationary.

Mrs. Harmony said that on June 16, the afternoon before the Watergate break-in, Liddy was looking for some stationery with the letterhead of Sen. George S. McGovern. He couldn't find it, she said, and "we Xeroxed an example of the McGovern letterhead."

The nature of the message typed on it, she said, was: "To whom it may concern. This will authorize the bearer to enter the premises."

She added: "I was asked to put the initials GH-JP and the signature was signed Gary Hart with the initials like a secretary had typed it."

Mrs. Harmony said she was told the following week that Hunt, one of the seven Watergate conspirators, had the letter in his possession.

She also said that the day Liddy was interviewed by the FBI, sometime after the breakin, she shredded her shorthand notebooks.

Q. On whose instructions?

A. On Mr. Liddy's instructions.

"He had asked me to check through the files and if I found anything with his handwriting on it, would I please destroy it," Mrs. Harmony said.

Mrs. Harmony said that Magruder contacted her in March, or perhaps April, 1973 to tell her that he had told former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell that Mitchell "has no reason to be concerned about any of your testimony."

Reinforcements Sent Into Mekong Delta

SAIGON (AP) — Some of the sharpest fighting in the cease-fire period has broken out in the Mekong Delta and the South Vietnamese government sent in reinforcements today.

Stiff fighting also was reported in Cambodia. A dispatch from Phnom Penh reported that hundreds of Cambodian insurgents swarmed in human waves across rice paddies 16 miles southwest of the capital and overran a company of government soldiers.

U.S. planes had been attacking enemy positions in the area, and the bombings had been expected to keep the rebels pinned down.

Military sources reported the clashes erupted because of a Viet Cong attempt to move into position for attacks on traffic moving up Highway 4, Saigon's rice road from the farms of the delta.

The sources said more fighting is expected in the area, about 40 miles from the capital.

In Cambodia, authorities reported an American spotter plane crashed and exploded just after it lifted off the runway at a Phnom Penh airport, killing the American pilot. The flyer, who was not immediately identified, was the second American pilot killed in the Cambodian war within two weeks.

The Saigon command said the combined casualty count for government and Viet Cong soldiers in the delta fighting Sunday and Monday was up to 200 dead or wounded.

The battles exploded about 40 miles from the capital, in an area close to the district town of Cai Lay. The Viet Cong claim Saigon forces are launching land-grabbing operations in the area aimed at extending their control, but the Communists had no immediate comment on the latest fighting.

Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, chief spokesman for the Saigon command, reported that a Communist artillery attack Sunday against a government outpost three miles southwest of Cai Lay quickly erupted into a full-scale battle.

The barrage was followed by an infantry assault that cost the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese 59 dead and an unknown number of wounded, Hien announced. Government casualties were put at 26 killed and 50 wounded.

Council Rejects County Request To Share Reassessment Costs

The City Council rejected Monday evening a request from the Pettis County Court to help bear the cost of a county-wide reassessment. However, the council may discuss the matter again.

The request was discussed in the pre-council session where Councilman Lee Garrison of the Fourth Ward said he didn't want any part of a reassessment and got agreement from Councilmen Ira Knox and Raymond Bales of the Second Ward and from R. S. "Bob" Wells of the Third Ward.

Wells made the motion in regular session to deny the court's request by saying, "I think the county should stand all this expense." He indicated that city residents pay county taxes. Bales seconded the motion.

The only discussion following the motion was a request by Don Broaddus of the First Ward to delay any decision since the city's fiscal budget is still unfinished and it is not yet known if the city would have funds available for such participation. No response to Broaddus' suggestion was heard and the council made its decision on a non-roll call vote.

Mayor Jerry Jones Tuesday said that the council may bring the topic up for discussion again at a special meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday. The council is scheduled to meet then to discuss the results of a recent taxicab investigation as well as suggestions from Bothwell Hospital about the ambulance situation in the city.

Presiding Judge Harry Walch said Tuesday he was "disappointed but not discouraged" by the council's decision. "We're going to start the (reassessment) job whether the city goes along or not."

Western District Judge John Bluhm Jr. said Tuesday he wasn't surprised by the council's decision, but said the city and county should try to cooperate more. "I think they are going to benefit from reassessment ... There are a lot of rural people helping to repair their streets by paying the (city) one-cent sales tax."

Jones said it would take formal council action to change the council's decision on the reassessment financing issue. The reassessment job is expected to cost about $150,000.

An application for hook-up to the city's sewer system for an area outside the city limits was read and approved. The application was submitted by Furnell Construction Co. for the Brentwood Manor subdivision. The action was the culmination of an easement problem for the proposed Grand-Kentucky sewer project. Furnell refused to grant the city an easement unless his subdivision, which lies directly in the path of the sewer line, was allowed to hook on. The federal Environmental Protection Agency backed up Furnell's request by threatening to withhold nearly $250,000 in funding if the residential district was not hooked on to the new sewer. The council amended an City's Only Gas Bid Was Opened Too Soon

The predicted absence of bidders for the city's gasoline contract for the 1973-74 fiscal year materialized at Monday night's City Council meeting. But the gas bids were opened two weeks too soon and a supplier may still be forthcoming.

City Clerk Ralph Dedrick said Tuesday he mistakenly brought the only submitted bid to the Monday council meeting when the actual deadline for submitting bids was the June 18 meeting.

Consequently, the council received no bids for diesel fuel and gasoline, although it did receive a bid from the Wally Frank Oil Co. (Phillips 66) to supply motor oil and grease. Dedrick said he informed all of the local gasoline wholesalers about a month ago that bids should be submitted before the June 18 council meeting.

The council voted to reject the bid on grease and oil and to have the finance and taxes committee go shopping for the best prices available on the petroleum market. City Counselor Robert Fritz revealed such action is legal if the bidding process is unsuccessful, as in this case.

But since the actual bids aren't due until June 18, the council still has two weeks to wait and the committee won't investigate the gasoline situation, committee member Don Broaddus, First Ward councilman, said Tuesday.

Broaddus told The Democrat-Capital that he has learned that the present supplier of gasoline and diesel fuel to the city, the Oakwood Oil Co., might submit a bid. A spokesman for the company said Tuesday no decision has yet been reached.

The city's present contract with the company expires June 30. The city presently purchases gas at 12.6 cents a gallon (excluding federal and state taxes) and diesel fuel at 12.25 cents a gallon.

County Court Will Furnish Tax Records

The city will receive its tax assessment records by July 15, but the records won't be compiled by the office of Pettis County Assessor Jerry Trotter.

At a meeting of county and city officials Tuesday morning at the courthouse, the Pettis County court agreed to "furnish completed city tax records (to the city) for $4,600 plus additional costs of copying, not in excess of $1,000."

The records will be copied from assessment books by two typists, hired at the county's expense, Presiding Judge Harry Walch said. The books, which contain recently-revised 1973 assessments, are presently in the office of Mrs. Mary Jane Wilson, county clerk.

In the past, Trotter has himself received $4,600 from the city for making duplicate copies of assessment books involving real estate, personal property and ad valorem taxes in the city. But a dispute between the county and Trotter over who should receive the money prompted the assessor to declare that the city would receive this year's books only if the matter is settled.

However, Trotter surprised a few people Tuesday when he told Sedalia Mayor Jerry Jones and City Counselor Robert Fritz that this year's assessment records of city real estate property had been compiled and would be turned over to the city. Jones personally transported the books from the courthouse to city hall after the meeting.

Jones and Fritz had interrupted the meeting with the county court and County Prosecutor Gary Fleming to go to Trotter's office and obtain binders for the books which reportedly had been paid for by the city.

However, Trotter has not compiled duplicate copies of city personal property taxes and ad valorem taxes. The original up-to-date records of these tax assessments, though, were turned into Mrs. Wilson's office a few days ago by Trotter, as is required by state law.

Thus, the city only needs the assessment records of personal property taxes and ad valorem taxes in order to mail out its separate tax statements around the first part of November.

Walch said the typists, who would work under Mrs. Wilson, would copy the tax books in a vacant room adjacent to the county clerk's room. He said work would start as "soon as possible" and would be completed before July 15.

Daily Expense Hike Approved by Senate

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri's 197 legislators will get a $15 raise in their daily expenses if Gov. Christopher S. Bond signs a bill passed by the Senate.

After defeating an attempt to add an amendment raising the lawmakers' salaries from $8,400 to $11,500, the senators approved 18-9 Monday a bill raising their per diem expenses from $10 to $25.

Counting the $2,500 that a legislator can average in per diem expenses for a six-month session, the 10 cents a mile, and the salary of $8,400 a year, his total compensation would run to nearly $12,000 on the average.

Last week the House passed an amended Senate bill which removes the limit of 200 on the number of legislative employes and increased the lawmakers' annual pay to $12,000. The Senate refused to go along with the pay raise amendment.

Senate majority leader Lawrence J. Lee, D-St. Louis, said Monday he was told by the House majority leader, Kenneth Rothman, D-Clayton, that if the per diem bill was returned to the House with a salary raise amendment, it would be dead for this session.

The House delayed action on a Senate bill to allow banks to provide loan services at their drive-in facilities after more than an hour of heated debate. The bill is sponsored by Sen. Albert M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau.

The action came after a floor fight over an amendment offered by Rothman to add revisions of the state's controversial "holder-in-due course" laws to the bill.

The holder-in-due-course laws allow banks and credit companies to buy contracts from companies selling products and services, but does not make them responsible for defects in those services or products.

A bill to revise the laws was passed by the House in February, 145-9, but it has been bottled up in Spradling's Senate Banking Committee.

Rothman's amendment was defeated in a tie 72-72 vote, after several representatives said it changed the intent of the Senate bill.

European Confidence In Dollar Is Sinking

LONDON (AP) — Confidence in the U.S. dollar continued to sink in Europe today as the American currency hit new lows and the price of gold new highs for the fifth straight day.

Dealers again blamed the dollar's trouble largely on the Watergate scandal, as they have done each business day since the U.S. currency began its latest plunge last Wednesday.

But there appeared to be a difference in atmosphere. For the first time, leading bankers and treasury officials dropped hints that the present system of floating exchange rates may not be enough to avoid another international monetary crisis.

On Monday, the dollar suffered its worst fall of the year on European money markets, dropping two per cent in value against the West German mark and falling sharply against other leading European currencies.

When markets reopened today, the dollar was plunging again. It dropped from 2.6100 West German marks to 2.5850 marks in nervous, active trading, dealers said.

In Paris, the dollar dropped to 4.16 commercial francs; in Zurich, to 3.0250 Swiss francs. All were new lows, and dealers said the bottom had not been hit yet.

In London, the pound was up to $2.5860, the weakest level for the dollar in a year.

As the dollar weakened, gold moved on to new heights.

In early deals in London and Zurich, the two major bullion markets, the metal was quoted at $127.50 an ounce, up nearly $4 from Monday's close.

The gold price has now moved up an astounding 25 per cent in the last three weeks. It is almost double the price of $68 an ounce quoted just before the dollar was last devalued in February.

Dealers say wealthy individuals, corporations and Middle East oil interests have been getting out of dollars to find relative safety in gold.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — I would like to know how to make those square sofa pillows with yarn pom-poms on the top. I cannot find the directions any place. Can someone help me? — VIRGINIA

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer suggests a gift for new mothers. Melt ordinary wax in a coffee can and color LIGHTLY with crayon if you wish, but be sure the wax remains very pale. Cut the birth announcement you have received along the fold, dip each half in this melted wax and leave them to dry. Pour the remaining wax in a drinking glass and insert each half of the announcement next to the edge of the glass. Let harden and then remove. Wax can be shaved from the front of the formed candle to bring the announcement closer to the surface. A wick could be inserted if desired. This makes a great keepsake. — VICKIE

DEAR POLLY — High chairs have a way of getting caked with dried goop that ordinary wiping does not remove. At times like that I put the chair in the tub, close the curtain and turn the shower on "Hot" for about three minutes. Scrub with a scrubber, rinse and it will look like new. (Polly's note — Be sure to dry thoroughly so no rust could appear on a metal chair.) — MRS. E.R.K.

Guilty Plea In Death Of Woman

LIBERTY, Mo. (AP) — Michael W. Goring, 24-year-old former cemetery caretaker, pleaded guilty in Clay County Circuit Court in the beating death Aug. 6, 1971 of one of two women found in Higginsville.

Goring pleaded guilty Monday to second-degree murder in the death of Mrs. Mary Collier. He is charged with first-degree murder in the slaying of her daughter, Mrs. Thelma Davis, 61.

The women were at the cemetery visiting the grave of Mrs. Collier's husband and Mrs. Davis' father.

Goring told Judge R. Kenneth he killed Mrs. Collier on "an impulse" after she entered a maintenance shed.

"I was trying to wipe the blood away (after allegedly slaying Mrs. Davis) and this other woman came through the door, saw what was happening and started running."

He said he dragged Mrs. Collier back into the shed and beat her with a sledgehammer.

The case was moved to Clay County from Lafayette County on a change of venue.

James G. Lauderdale, Lafayette County prosecutor, said he would wait until Goring is sentenced to start the trial in the other case.

Ann Landers

Ann Hopes Father Will Get Counseling

Dear Ann Landers: Here's an open letter to all you kids who are mad at your parents because they didn't give you enough love when you were growing up. (Some of you "kids" are 30 years old.) Your psychiatrist told you (for $40 an hour) that your parents are to blame for messing you up — that they were too busy making money or being community big shots. A hired woman fed and dressed you. You weren't rocked enough, or breast-fed. Or your parents had a bad marriage. They yelled at each other and you got bad vibes.

How do you account for all the kids who grew up on the street, never knew a decent meal, no silverware on the table, father a drunk, mother a barfly, yet they made it just fine — without psychiatric help. Many of these so-called "neglected" kids are leaders in business, politics, education, art, music — wherever you look.

I am so fed up hearing kids blame their parents for everything that I could throw up. I am waiting for the day when they have kids of their own. Let's see how well THEY turn out. — Your Good-For-Nothing Father

Dear Father: You didn't ask for any advice, but I have an idea you should have grabbed a few of those $40 sessions for yourself. You sound deeply disappointed in your children and worse yet, seething with anger. Obviously you've been hurt and rejected and it shows. Maybe it's not too late for you to get some self-understanding. I recommend it.

Dear Ann Landers: I would like to reply to the person who sent that Credo For Salespeople. It made every clerk in this store hopping mad. After all, we aren't ALL ignorant, unresponsive, indifferent and moronic. Granted, one out of ten salespeople just might fit that description, but I can tell you from experience that the chances for getting a pain-in-the-ankle customer are better than 50-50.

Here is my list of salesmen's grievances. I'll bet no store manager will have this credo framed and hung, but I'll feel better for having written it.

1. Please don't try to get a clerk's attention by snapping your fingers, whistling, or pulling at his or her sleeve.

2. Please don't let your children run loose in the store, screaming like banshees, knocking over stacks of cans, breaking and soiling merchandise. If you can't discipline them, leave them at home.

3. Merchandise is sealed for YOUR protection. Please don't rip it open. Would you buy a jar with a broken seal? Well, neither would anyone else.

4. At present I work at a supermarket checkout counter. I say "thank you" to every customer. One person out of twenty responds.

I could go on indefinitely, but these are for openers. Let's hear it for the Sales Clerks of America. Every day we have to put up with screaming kids, shoplifters, non-English-speaking customers, and sourpusses like that clown who wrote to you. No hint as to where this letter came from, please, Ann. I need my job. Sign me — Other Side Of The Counter

Dear Side: Never let it be said that I didn't give both sides of the counter a fair hearing. You've made some valid points and I thank you for writing.

Consumers Are Advised To Watch Weakening Dollar

NEW YORK (AP) — Consumers who insist on French champagne, Iranian caviar and Irish linen would be well advised to watch the headlines about the weakening dollar.

If, on the other hand, you think domestic champagne is pretty good, you don't have to worry about any immediate impact on you. It also helps if you are not planning on traveling abroad or buying a wedding ring or a foreign sports car.

Economists say the beating the dollar is taking abroad will produce negligible immediate effect for most consumers.

Dr. Milton Friedman, University of Chicago economist, says Americans tend to confuse the beating the dollar takes with the rise in the price of gold.

Americans will pay more for gold jewelry and gold fillings from the dentist.

They will pay more to travel abroad, up to 20 per cent more in Germany and 12 to 15 per cent in France. However, American travelers seem to be taking this in stride. American Express, for example, says its reservations for trips to Europe are slightly over last year.

But the number of foreigners coming to America for a vacation is up dramatically. James W. Thompson, manager of public relations for American Express, says the company has booked 3½ times the number of tourists to the United States this year as last.

"The dollar devaluation has a hell of a lot to do with it," said Thompson, since foreign tourists can get more for their money in the United States than ever before.

Foreign importers raised their prices when the dollar was devalued, but there seem to be no plans for additional hikes because of the current battering the dollar is taking.

Friedman said the lack of meetings by central bankers and of calls for devaluation showed that the system of floating exchange rates was working.

Planting Progress Reported

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Missouri farmers, aided by weather that allowed three days of work during the week ended June 2, are making progress on this year's planting, the state Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said.

In a report issued Monday the service said corn planting is 66 per cent complete compared with 94 per cent last year.

Soybean planting is 22 per cent completed compared with 70 per cent last year, grain sorghum is 20 per cent completed compared with 22 per cent last year and cotton is 78 per cent completed with all cotton planted last year.

The report said 44 per cent of the alfalfa is harvested and 24 per cent of the wheat in the state is turning color.

There is surplus soil moisture in the northern third of the state and in the Bootheel, the service said, with adquate moisture elsewhere.

Foreign Investors Buying

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — While the stock market scene seems to bore Americans almost as much as those summer television reruns, foreign investors are acting as if they've had a preview of things to come.

They are buying, that is, at a time when a large segment of the American public is ignoring the market. And when any investor buys he either thinks or hopes that prices will rise.

The purchases are somewhat anomalous in that foreigners in other ways are proclaiming their distrust of the American economy, or perhaps of American political leadership, and are selling dollars feverishly. But they are buying stocks.

In the first quarter of the year the net total of foreign purchases — sales deducted from purchases — probably exceeded $1 billion.

This figure was more than double the net total of purchases at the like time a year earlier, when the market was rising rather than falling, as it is now.

While the domestic boredom with stocks is blamed on various factors — such as capital gains taxes, low dividend rates, Wall Street disorganization and customer distrust, to name a few — the foreign interest is attributed to value.

Whether these values are real or imagined is an outcome that nobody can forecast, but when you look at some of the facts on which foreign decisions are made you have to agree that they seem sound.

For instance, as Chase Manhattan Bank notes in its biweekly "International Finance," since 1970 the dollar has depreciated by an average of 17 per cent against currencies of Germany, Switzerland, France, the Netherlands, Belgium, Italy, Sweden, Canada, Britain and Japan.

That means an added price reduction on American stocks, some of which already are discounted to their lowest prices in years when matched against their ascending earnings. The principal foreign investors, says Chase, have been institutions, "investment trusts and some banks in Japan, and, in the case of Europe, chiefly banks buying for managed accounts."

The American markets provide these institutions with large supplies of stock.

What are they buying? Despite the wide choices available, Chase quotes an international brokerage house specialist as saying they've been concentrating in high-quality growth stocks such as Eastman Kodak, Polaroid, Xerox and IBM.

Effie F. Daniel

WARSAW — Effie F. Daniel, 71, died Monday afternoon at the Lincoln Nursing Home, Lincoln.

She was born June 18, 1901, near Willow Springs, daughter of Waller and Lucinda Moore.

She was married April 24, 1918, to John Henry Wagner, who preceded her in death in 1948.

She married Frank Daniel in 1955 and he preceded her in death in 1959.

Mrs. Daniel had been a resident of the Warsaw area since 1954 and was a member of the Warsaw United Methodist Church.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. Thelma Brown and Mrs. Lois Ruby, both of Warsaw; Mrs. Lorene Whertwine, Fenton; Mrs. Alice Hansen, Lincoln; six sons, Floyd Wagner and Johnnie Wagner, Marble Hill, Mo.; Herschel Wagner, Warsaw; Howard Wagner, Flint, Mich.; Harold Dean Wagner, Seattle, Wash.; and Leslie Wagner, Topeka, Kan.; one brother, Robert Moore, Springfield; 16 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 1 p.m. Thursday at Pleasant Grove Church near Willow Springs with burial in the church cemetery.

The family will receive friends Wednesday evening at the Reser Funeral Chapel, Warsaw.

John Paul

John Paul, 79, 1508 South Moniteau, died at 11 a.m. Tuesday at Bothwell Hospital.

The body is at McLaughlin Funeral Home. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

LeRoy W. (Doc) Bailey

KNOB NOSTER — LeRoy W. (Doc) Bailey, 66, died at 1:30 p.m. Monday at Johnson County Memorial Hospital, Warrensburg.

He was born July 6, 1906, south of Knob Noster, son of the late Frank and Minnie Rogers Bailey. He married Mary Elizabeth Miller on Feb. 14, 1931. She preceded him in death in March, 1957.

A lifetime resident of Knob Noster, he was a mechanic and a member of the Pleasant Grove Church, south of Knob Noster.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Doris Romero, Arlington, Va.; one son, Roger Bailey, 818 West Seventh; two sisters, Mrs. Agnes Lear and Mrs. Inez Zink, both of Knob Noster; and six grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Pleasant Grove Church with the Rev. John Kurtz officiating.

Burial will be in the church cemetery.

The family will receive friends from 7 to 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Sweeney-Phillips Funeral Home, Warrensburg.

Sweet Springs To Let Solid Waste Contract

(Democrat-Capital Service)

SWEET SPRINGS — Solid waste disposal was the major topic of discussion at the Monday night meeting of the Sweet Springs city council. A meeting was scheduled for Thursday night, at which time a contract would be awarded to one of the three companies submitting bids for a solid waste disposal program.

In other council action revenue sharing was discussed briefly after which civil defense director Bob McAlister requested permission for a portion of his auxiliary police force to work with city police in a training program.

McAlister also reported that he had installed a police radio in his truck and requested permission to rent an office in the Merrick building at $200 per year utilities. McAlister said that if the office request is approved, the civil defense radio would be installed there.

A summer youth employment program is now available for Sweet Springs youths 14-22 years old, male or female. Ten slots are available at $1.60 per hour for a 20-hour work week. Applicants may file at the Sweet Springs city hall at 9 a.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Bernice Noel was appointed to the cemetery board to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. Edwin Berry, Jr. and an ordinance was read and approved to close off the east end of Rand Street immediately in compliance with a request from Rival Mfg. Co. which assumed all responsibility for sewer and water lines in the street.

All city employes were voted a raise of five dollars a month and applications are being accepted for a third city policeman.

The old shoe factory building, damaged in a fire the first part of April, has been rented to the M&M Feed Co. for $90 a month. The building will be repaired and a loading dock built.

ordinance prohibiting such a hookup a few weeks ago.

Bids from five companies on a number of adding machines, calculators and typewriters were turned over to the finance and taxes committee for selection of the best or lowest bid.

A condemnation hearing for a building at 2001 South Ohio was scheduled for June 16.

Ordinances were passed to prohibit parking on the east side of Park from Broadway to Ninth and on the north side of Fourth from New York east to the alley; to place mercury vapor street lights on Osage at the alley between Pettis and Cooper and on Howard, 2,600 feet west of Harding; and to change from residential to heavy industry zoning a tract of land north of North Broadway between Missouri and Ohio, the latter at the request of the Tallman Co.

Ordinances will be drawn to place a fire hydrant at the northeast corner of 14th and Ingram to serve the new Children's Therapy Center and the additions to Bothwell Hospital; and to replace incandescent street lights with mercury vapor fixtures at 16th and Engineer and in the 1200 block of West Spring.

Approval was granted for private contract curb and guttering in the 1400 block of New England Drive.

The council voted to spend $470 to purchase 250 decals to put on city vehicles. The decals will include the city seal as well as the name of the department to which the vehicle belongs. It was noted the large purchase provided a savings of about 50 per cent on the cost of the decals.

It was also decided to further pursue an offer of help from a city art organization in decorating the new city hall with art work by local individuals.

Wells said in the pre-council meeting that he would be unable to attend the special session Wednesday night because of a union meeting. George Dugan Jr. of the Fourth Ward asked him, "Which is more important, union or this?" Wells' answer indicated he felt his union duties took precedence over the special council meeting.

Also in the pre-council session, it was learned that Missouri State Fair officials have requested the council close Clarendon Road between the Missouri-Kansas Texas railroad tracks and the southern corner of State Fair Community College during the Fair. It was noted the Fair has purchased the land across Clarendon from the Sheep Pavilion to be used for parking and that the safety of pedestrians crossing the street is one reason for the request. The council took no action on the request.

Dugan, chairman of the finance and taxes committee, invited the entire council to meet with the committee each evening June 12-14 for budget planning sessions.

A liquor by the drink license was renewed for Bothwell Cocktail Lounge.

Firm Plans Additions To Kroger Store

Plans for a $90,000 addition to the east end of the Kroger Family Center building, 711 East Broadway, and for the construction of a $42,000 Hardee's Hamburger Restaurant on the south center edge of the firm's parking lot were submitted recently to City Building Inspector Woodrow Garrison.

The plans were submitted by representatives of Warmack and Co., Fort Smith, Ark., who constructed and own the existing Kroger building.

However, Garrison said he is holding off involvement in the project until the plans have been formally approved by a licensed Missouri architect or engineer. Garrison said this is merely a technicality and anticipated no problems in this matter.

According to the blueprints submitted to Garrison, the expansion will consist of a 93-by-105 feet addition and will house part of a T G and Y Department Store. The former drygoods and hardware department of the original building will also house part of the store, it was indicated.

The restaurant building, according to the specifications, will be 48-by-25 feet and will accommodate interior dining facilities.

Construction of the two projects, pending approval, is expected to begin "very soon," Garrison said.

Cool Swimmer

Petition Objects To Business

Objection to the location of a retail business in a residential zone has been expressed in the form of a petition presented to him, Third Ward Councilman Bob Wells informed the City Council Monday night.

Wells, who was not available for comment Tuesday, did not have the petition with him at the meeting.

The protest, Wells said, concerns the Wilken Music Store which is currently operated by Carl Wilken from his home at 1008 South Garfield.

City License Inspector Bob Brown Tuesday said he has requested City Collector Mrs. Opal Hugelman to "hold up" on processing Wilken's application to renew his city merchant's license for the coming year. His action, Brown explained, was taken at the recommendation of City Counselor Bob Fritz.

In a letter dated May 31, City Building Inspector Woodrow Garrison formally requested that Wilken "suspend (his) retail selling business within the next 15 days upon receipt of this letter or we will have no recourse but to take legal action against you."

According to Garrison, Wilken can correct the situation by removing the business from his home, relocating the business in a properly zoned area or obtaining a special permit from the city planning and zoning commission.

Garrison also said his assistant, Nelson Lee, had informed Wilken of his violation of city zoning regulations in December, 1972, but that nothing was done to correct the situation.

According to the files of City Collector Mrs. Opal Hugelman, Wilken first purchased a city merchant's license in 1971. Mrs. Hugelman indicated Tuesday she had sold Wilken the license at that time because he had assured her that none of his neighbors objected.

Contacted Tuesday, Wilken said he had "no intent to close because I can't afford that type of loss." Told of the petition presented to Wells, Wilken said "it's really caught me by surprise, because I've never had any complaints personally."

Wilken, who acknowledged he was aware of the zoning law violation, said he "wished I could have been at the meeting when they talked about it."

Defending his business, Wilken said "we adhere to a policy of keeping noise to a minimum and no advertising on the premises because we realize we are in a residential area."

Wilken indicated he has retained a lawyer to assist him in any further legal dealings with the city. If Wilken fails to comply within 15 days of receiving the notice, Garrison indicated he would sign a warrant for his arrest on a charge of violating the city zoning ordinance.

Wilken, who said he did not want to be "singled out" mentioned that two similar home music businesses are presently being operated by Lloyd Knox, 508 West Broadway, and Wayne Mountjoy, 1629 South Park.

However, Brown later explained to the Democrat-Capital, these two businesses were in operation before the city's present zoning regulations were adopted in 1955 and hence are not subject to the restrictions. The two firms, he added, purchase a "nonconforming" license each year.

County Road Workers Get Wage Increase

County road employes and the Pettis County court have reached an apparent settlement on the employe's request for higher wages, according to Presiding Judge Harry Walch.

Walch told The Democrat-Capital Tuesday morning that the road workers had unanimously accepted a 15 cent-per-hour increase in pay for each worker plus a two week vacation instead of the one week that they had been given in the past.

Walch said that the court met with the workers in the road department shed at Main and State Fair Boulevard at 7:30 Tuesday morning.

The 11 workers made the request Friday morning in the judges' chambers and had originally requested a 50-cent hourly wage increase and the extra week of paid vacation, it was reported.

Walch said that the employes did not threaten a work stoppage if their requests were not met.

A spokesman for the road workers was not available for comment Tuesday morning.

Pompidou Cancels Appearances At Ceremonial Events

PARIS (AP) — President Georges Pompidou has decided to cancel his appearances at all ceremonial events in the next few weeks, the Elysee Palace announced today.

French newspapers and magazines have speculated recently that Pompidou may be more seriously ill than indicated by official announcements that he is tired from recurrent colds and the flu.

Arson Suspected In Morning Blaze

Sedalia Fire Chief Willas Jabas Tuesday said arson is being investigated as the probable cause of a blaze that caused $1,500 damages to a rooming house at 207 East St. Louis.

The home, owned by Theo Christian, caught fire at 3:30 a.m. Tuesday. The blaze, Jabas said, is believed to have started on the outside of the house.

"Fires like that just don't start from nothing," Jabas said. "There was another fire at the same location this year (Feb. 8) but from the inside. We thought that might have started accidentally, but now I'm not as certain."

Jabas indicated he will request the assistance of the Sedalia police department in investigating the incident. No action had been taken by police as of Tuesday noon, it was reported.

Records

City Collector Mrs. Opal Hugelman, also present at the meeting, said she needed the books by July 15 in order to get the statements out on time.

Fritz and Fleming will prepare a written agreement of the settlement.

Trotter refused to comment on the city-county arrangement Tuesday. However, he said he gave the real estate tax assessment book to the city because he said he wouldn't put an extra burden on Mrs. Hugelman's office.

Trotter was not present at the meeting.

On April 30 the county filed a civil suit against Trotter to collect $3,650 which the assessor allegedly owes the county in fees he received for compiling Sedalia's tax assessment records for the 1971-72 fiscal year. The suit is pending in Pettis County Circuit Court.

Trotter in March, 1972, paid back $4,600 to the county. The $4,600 is the money the city paid him directly for doing its tax books for the 1970-71 fiscal year.

The assessor reimbursed the county after it was learned a recent state attorney general's opinion stated that the assessor was to be paid a straight salary and discontinue working under the fee system. Under this procedure, all money to be paid for compiling assessments records of other governmental bodies is to be turned over directly to the county and not to the assessor himself.

Ten Cases Of Whiskey Are Stolen

Sedalia Police Tuesday morning investigated the theft of ten cases of whiskey, valued at $400, from the Holiday Liquor's store, 3312 South Limit, sometime Monday night.

The theft was discovered by store owner Edward Steidley when he opened for business Tuesday morning. Police said a back window was forced to gain entry to the building.

Charles Wansing, 121 East Third, told police Tuesday morning his 1969 four-door Ford was stolen sometime between 10:30 p.m. and 11 p.m. Monday.

A rash of bicycle thefts were reported to Sedalia Police over the weekend.

Those reporting stolen bicycles included: Ken Weller, 712 West Broadway, a 10-speed, green Le Mans; Tom Fischer, 3016 East 12th, a 10-speed yellow Western Flyer; Rocky Wooster, 711 West Second, a 10-speed, gold Montgomery Ward; Mike Ulmer, 719 East 17th, an orange Schwinn English model; Robert Beykirch, 2900 Skyline Drive, a 10-speed maroon Kolkoff model valued at $115.

W.L. Rowe, 923 East 15th, a green, 20-inch Montgomery Wards model, valued at $40, and a 20-inch Huffy valued at $40. John Russell, 234 South Moniteau, a yellow Schwinn Sting-Ray model valued at $62; Jim Twenter, 916 South Massachusetts, a 10-speed Erobe model valued at $97; Linden Gibson, 1711 South Grand, a red and black 10-speed.

A break-in at the Handiest Coin-O-Matic building, 315 North Osage, was reported to police late Saturday night. Taken in the burglary, according to police records, was $10.87 in loose change from a detergent cabinet and a glass jar. In addition, police reported, a cabinet window, valued at $7 and a bubble gum machine, valued at $12 were destroyed.

The theft apparently occurred between 8:45 p.m. and 10:10 p.m. Saturday, police said. The incident was reported by Marvin Carter, 500 West Saline, owner of the business.

Police said a soda pop bottle was probably used to smash the detergent cabinet.

Bertie Lou Wiseman, 1320 West 17th, told police late Saturday evening that someone had vandalized her car and stolen a Kodak instamatic camera from the vehicle while it was parked at a Bothwell Hospital parking lot.

According to police reports, the front right window of the Wiseman car was broken. No estimate was given on the damage done or on the value of the stolen camera. The incident occurred between 3 p.m. and 11:20 p.m. Saturday, police said.

Anne Rayl, 2342 West Second, an employe of A and R Bootery, 516 South Ohio, told police Saturday morning that her billfold was stolen by three black juveniles while she was working in the store.

According to police reports, the three suspects entered the store, went behind the sales counter and took the Rayl woman's billfold from her purse. The billfold and contests were collectively valued at $80, it was reported.

Goldie Butterbaugh, 309 East 14th, told police that her home was broken into and $37 had been taken from her purse. Police reported that the house had been ransacked while Mrs. Butterbaugh was working outside.

Judge Armstrong Returns To Bench

Pettis County Magistrate Court Judge Frank Armstrong returned to the bench Tuesday. The judge entered Bothwell Hospital about three months ago to undergo surgery for a stomach disorder.

"Everything will be back to normal," Judge Armstrong said, when asked if he would put in his usual hours at the courthouse.

The judge said his only duties Tuesday morning were telling a man that he was a month early for his court appearance. He added, however, that a number of preliminary hearings have been set for Thursday.

Saline County Magistrate Court Judge Allen Parish filled in for Judge Armstrong during his hospital stay.

High Wind Picks Up Trailer

"The trailer was lifted six to ten feet off the ground," said Ronnie Berry, Route 4. Berry reported that high winds which whistled through Sedalia late Monday evening tore the skirt off his trailer and rippled the floors inside.

Berry reported that he still had electrical service after the mishap. He planned to have it disconnected just after the storm occurred.

Berry and his wife were preparing for bed at 10:10 p.m. when "the wind just picked it up and set it right back down," according to Berry. No damage estimates were available Monday evening on the 12 x 60 trailer.

Berry and his expectant wife made arrangements to spend the night with his parents who live next door.

Berry said his trailer was anchored and skirted.

Several tree limbs were also known to be blown down throughout Sedalia because of high winds. The Pettis County Sheriff's Department had no weather damage reports at 11 p.m. Monday.

Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Coronary Bypass Is Now Common

Dear Dr. Lamb — One year ago on November 30, my husband underwent open heart surgery. He had two veins removed from his leg to replace the bad arteries. A friend of ours had the same operation the day after my husband's. They are both 36 years old. Recently our friend had an artery collapse.

Naturally this has upset us as my husband is now wondering if this is going to happen to him. Could you tell me what causes this to happen? Also, if you pass a certain length of time after an artery operation, does this mean your chances are better that they won't collapse. We would like all the information you can give us about these operations. My husband is on a low cholesterol diet.

The doctors told us his count was so high that is why he had two heart attacks in 1971. My husband used to smoke but I think he has quit, although I think he sneaks one once in a while. Please tell me how bad smoking is after an operation like his. He still has occasional chest pains and has his nitroglycerin with him at all times.

Dear Reader — These operations are so common now in some medical centers that they are practically done on an assembly line basis. The idea is to use a vein taken from the leg and take a segment of it and sew it as a detour around a localized block in the coronary artery of the heart. This means, of course, that the fatty blockage in the artery has to be localized to a short segment. If the entire length of the artery is diseased, there is nothing to detour to. Because the detour "bypasses" the localized block, the operation is called a coronary bypass. The underlying disease that caused the fatty blockage of the artery originally is unaltered by the operation. The new vein that is used for a detour may develop the same fatty deposits and become blocked. A clot may form or other difficulties may occur.

Fortunately, the heart has three major arteries, the right coronary and two branches of the left coronary artery. Because tiny arteries connect between the small branches of these arteries nature has already provided a detour to provide some blood to the heart muscle if one of these become blocked.

There are arguments for and against this procedure. It is indicated in some cases and in others it is not. The bypass graft may be blocked with fatty deposits in a short or longer period of time, or not at all.

Since the underlying disease, atherosclerosis, is not corrected by surgery, the same measures used to prevent this process in the first place are just as important after surgery as before. This means no smoking and following the diet recommendation of the Inter-Society Commission on Heart Disease.

I've discussed diet before but the most important element is the elimination of any obesity whatever (being absolutely lean) and following a moderately fat restricted diet. A proper diet, elimination of smoking, and attention to overall habit patterns are exceptionally important after surgery in people who have disease of sufficient severity to warrant the surgery in the first place.

Record-Holding Cat

Senator Ken Myer's world record-holding cat, Andy, fearlessly prepares to jump again — this time a shorter distance — from the top of Myer's desk. Andy jumped or fell 16 floors from a Miami apartment, hit the pavement, then got up and walked away. The Miami senator notified the Guinness Book of World Records and was told Andy's feat will be duly recorded as the longest fall by a living cat. (UPI)

Reorganization Process Has Entered Its Last Lap

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The long process of reorganizing the executive branch of state government has entered its last lap, which may run until the legislature adjourns June 15.

A subcommittee presented a revised 53-page bill to the joint House-Senate Reorganization Conference Committee Monday night and the discussion process began all over again.

Voters approved reorganization in August and authorized the legislature to figure out a way to put 440 programs into 13 new departments and the Office of Administration.

After getting approval in both houses, a substitute version of reorganization went to a conference committee to iron out the differences.

The conference committee's first action set up a four-man subcommittee to reduce the possibility for conflict and speed up the process of final passage.

The legislature must approve a reorganization bill by June 15, or the governor can take action by executive order subject to legislative rejection.

The four-man subcommittee excluded Rep. Harold Volkmer, D-Hannibal, from the bargaining temporarily. Volkmer sponsored the House reorganization bill which was drafted by the Missouri Public Expenditure Survey for the State Reorganization Commission.

Volkmer also was a persistent critic of the Senate bill.

Monday night the entire reorganization conference committee met to discuss the subcommittee substitute bill.

Volkmer took issue with the new version which appeared to have the general support of almost everyone else on the committee.

The only change agreed on Monday night places the division of Public Safety in the Department of Highway Safety under a type 3 transfer which means the division is almost completely autonomous.

The division director would be appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate.

In other action, the committee agreed to consider an amendment offered by Rep. Joe Holt, D-Fulton, chairman of the House Reorganization and Conference Committees, which would make the general counsel for the Missouri Public Service Commission independent of commission control.

Holt's amendment would make the general counsel the public's counsel in matters of utility and public service rates before the regulating commission.

The committee debated, without reaching agreement, provisions which would make several divisions bipartisan.

Divisions of consumer protection, finance, insurance, credit unions, savings and loan, and commerce and industrial development would be required to employ their staff, with exception of directors and secretarial and clerical employes, on a bipartisan basis.

Sen. Richard M. Webster, R-Carthage, disagreed.

"We want organization and good government. We want to get rid of the bums," Webster said.

The issue involves the merit system which critics say allows hiring on the basis of eligibility but does not allow anyone to be fired for incompetence.

High Winds Cause Major Home Damage

ST. PETERS, Mo. (AP) — Tornadoes struck near several communities in eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois late Monday, but it was high winds and not tornadoes, which caused the most severe damage.

High winds accompanying one of several thunderstorms wrecked about 30 homes at St. Peters, 25 miles west of St. Louis.

About $200,000 in damages was caused, mostly to homes which lost their roofs, the St. Louis office of the National Weather Service reported. No serious injuries resulted, although some persons were cut by flying glass, police said.

George Brancato, meteorologist in charge of the weather service, said following a survey of the damage that it was a wind storm and not a tornado that hit the Sunny Meadows subdivision in the city. A twister had been reported near the community a short time before the wind storm hit.

There were reports of tornado sightings Monday night from several communities in St. Charles, Jefferson and St. Louis counties, and in communities in the Illinois portion of the area.

Several minor traffic accidents occurred in St. Louis when motorists were forced to the side of the road during a heavy downpour.

The weather service issued flash flood warnings for Steelville and Valley Park along the Meramec River.

A spokesman for Union Electric Co., said about 7,000 customers in a widely scattered area were without electric power during the height of the storm.

Two broadcasting towers were struck by lightning, forcing radio station KMOX in St. Louis off the air for about 45 minutes.

State Presidential Scholars Named

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two high school seniors — a boy and a girl — from each state have been chosen as presidential scholars in recognition of outstanding academic work and leadership potential.

They will come to Washington June 17 for a three-day visit. They will meet congressmen and high government officials and attend a White House ceremony.

The Missourians are Robert O. Banks of Monett High, and Elizabeth G. Mulchy of Creve Couer, a student at Pattonville Senior High.

Japan Begins Its Environment Week

TOKYO (AP) — Excursion boats with twinkling lights are returning to the River Sumida here. The stench is gone, and pedestrians and cyclists no longer need hold their noses while crossing its bridges.

What's more, Tokyo soon may have a law guaranteeing the "right to sunshine."

On these hopeful notes, Japan, one of the world's most crowded and polluted countries, began its Environment Week.

The observance started with No Car Tuesday, throughout the country. Everyone from government ministers on down was asked to leave their automobiles home and ride public transit or walk to work. Detectors were set up to measure the hoped-for drop in air pollution.

The change in the Sumida River is something of a resurrection.

Nine years ago, the river was pronounced dead after its water turned to black sludge. Since then, the Sumida and other rivers have been partially cleaned through such measures as policing of industrial wastes, increasing the flow of water and erection of treatment plants for 70 per cent of the sewerage. This compares with only five per cent in 1960.

The Tokyo city government is expected to enact the "right to sunshine" law in response to a petition with the names of 211,408 of the capital's 11 million population. It would require anyone constructing a building higher than 24½ feet to obtain the consent of three-fourths of the neigborhood's residents.

In individual cases, the government already has banned construction of structures that would cut off sunshine or light to neighboring buildings.

Despite this news, the city and the nation are still faced with massive problems of pollution of the air, the sea and the earth.

How to cope with some of them will be the theme of lectures during the week by the director-general of the Environment Agency, Vice Premier Takeo Miki, and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine. Muskie sponsored major clean air legislation in the U.S. Senate.

Rallies will be staged for planting saplings, cleaning river beds and reducing the wasteful use of wrapping paper.

Watergate anniversary is near

WASHINGTON — In just a few days, on June 17, the United States will celebrate the first anniversary of the breaking in of the Watergate. A group of patriotic citizens under the leadership of a friend of mine, Julian Stein, are urging President Nixon to declare it a national holiday.

Buchwald

He told me, "The one thing England has that we don't is Guy Fawkes Day. For more than 365 years the British have indulged in all sorts of shenanigans in memory of the man who tried to blow up Parliament in the Gunpowder Plot of 1605. Among other things they burn Guy Fawkes in effigy, make huge bonfires and set off firecrackers. In further commemoration of the Plot, a formal and ritualistic search of the vaults beneath the houses of Parliament is made each year at the opening of their sessions.

"We think that June 17 should be duly celebrated in this country as 'Watergate Day.' "

"It sounds great," I said. "What would people do to observe it?"

"On 'Watergate Day' Americans would memorialize this historic event by taping other people's doors, tapping telephones, syping on their neighbors, using aliases, wearing red wigs and making inoperative statements."

"You mean people could lie to each other?" I asked.

"Of course. Parents would not have to tell the truth to their children, bosses would not have to level with their employees, and husbands would be permitted to make up stories to tell their wives."

"June 17 would be like April Fools' Day," I said.

"It would be much wilder. Anyone breaking into a doctor's office would be granted immunity. People could raise money for phony causes, and only cash would be accepted as legal tender."

"Would you have parades?" I asked Mr. Stein.

"You bet we would. We would have plumbers' parades all over the country, honoring the plumbers in the White House who were supposed to turn off all the leaks.

"In Washington the President would review CIA and FBI bands as they marched down Pennsylvania Avenue leading the loyal members of the Committee for the Re-Election of the President.

"In the afternoon the President would lay a wreath at the Watergate complex just under the window of the former headquarters of the Democratic National Committee."

"That would be nice," I said.

"In the evening there would be a fireworks display in every town to remind us all of the fireworks the Watergate has caused in this country."

"I get chills just thinking about it," I admitted.

"If the President declares June 17 a national holiday, you could have 'Watergate Day' sales in the department stores with giant savings on burglary tools, shredding machines and lie detectors. And grand juries would only have to work a half-day."

"Of course," added Mr. Stein, "the churches would remain open for people who wanted to pray for their country."

"I don't see anything wrong with it," I said. "There's only one question. In England on Guy Fawkes Day, they burn Guy Fawkes in effigy. Who would Americans burn in effigy on 'Watergate Day?' "

"We may have to wait until June 17, 1974, before we figure that one out."

Johnny can't read? sue school district

In a first-of-its-kind case, the San Francisco United School District is being sued to the tune of $1 million in damages by an unidentified student called "Peter Doe," who charges that he was graduated from high school with the ability to read only at a fifth-grade level.

His mother also alleges that school officials defrauded her by repeatedly assuring her that her son was progressing normally in school.

"Peter Doe" is an 18-year-old white, middle-class student who attended school regularly, was never held back a grade and was not considered a disciplinary problem.

Essentially, the suit rests on the contention that under California law the state is responsible for minimum educational standards and establishing a system which turns out students who meet those standards.

According to the plaintiff's attorney, Susanne Martinez of San Francisco's Youth Law Center, "This case is the first of what will undoubtedly be a series of this type ... a forerunner of an effort on the part of parents and citizens to use the judicial system to focus on the fact that the schools have failed to provide the Peter Does of this country with the kind of education to which they are entitled."

Many educators are understandably dubious about the merits of the suit — and its implications. So are some lawyers.

"I think the case is one that does not belong in the courts," says Judge Haskell Freedman, former counsel to the Massachusetts Teachers Assn. The suit, he says, could open up hundreds of others which potentially could cost billions of dollars to the taxpayers.

Attorney Martinez admits that her client will have a "significant burden of proof" to show that his lack of learning was the fault of the school system, not of himself or his parents.

This is one of those cases that could either sink without a trace, or start a revolution. (NEA)

"WHO'S YOUR RUSTLER?"

Merry-go-round

Disclose the real nature of episode

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — A lot has happened since Martha Mitchell complained last June 23 that a security guard had ripped her telephone out of the wall and had inoculated her indelicately in the derriere.

For close to a year, witnesses have kept silent about the incident. But in the wake of the Watergate revelations, the new spirit of confession has now loosened their tongues. We have learned, at last, the details that housewives have been hounding us for.

The implication of their inquiries has been that poor Martha knew too much and was shut up by Republican security guards. The truth is less sinister. Martha Mitchell is a delightful, if loquacious lady. She has color and sparkle and a sense of humor. But she sometimes becomes volatile when she drinks too much.

This was her condition on June 23 in Newport Beach's Newporter Hotel on the California coast. As she became more shrill, her security guard, Steve King, tried to clam her. She screamed that he was holding her prisoner and she lunged for the telephone to call for help.

King was worried that, in her condition, she might reach a reporter and say something that would embarrass her later. So he yanked the telephone cord out of the wall while she was talking to UPI reporter Helen Thomas.

Martha became violent, assaulting the furnishings. Once she slashed the air with a karate swing and her hand crashed through a window pane. The broken glass cut her hand deeply, increasing her hysteria.

King summoned the hotel doctor, but Martha refused to let him look at her hurt hand. To quiet her, King pinned her down while the doctor gave her a tranquilizer shot. It had little immediate effect on the agitated Martha, who continued to rave. At one point, she wrapped a washrag around her hand to stop the bleeding but still wouldn't let the doctor treat it.

The harassed security guard, meanwhile, decided Martha Mitchell was more than he could handle. So he phoned her husband, ex-Attorney General John Mitchell, in Washington and gave him a blow-by-blow account of the altercation.

Immediately, Mitchell placed an urgent call to President Nixon's personal attorney, Herb Kalmbach, who happens to live in Newport Beach. Mitchell asked Kalmbach, as a personal favor, to hurry to the hotel and take charge of the situation.

When Kalmbach arrived, he found Martha still at full lung power, a blood-soaked washrag around her hand, protesting that she was being held prisoner. He finally got her calmed and brought in his own doctor to examine her hand.

Martha Mitchell got her hand stitched, spent the next day with the Kalmbachs and then flew to New York for a few days of seclusion at the plush Westchester Country Club.

John Mitchell, meanwhile, discussed the incident with the President, who was understanding and agreed Mitchell should leave the campaign to straighten out his marital problems. The former attorney general may also have felt the Watergate developments closing in on him. But Watergate was not mentioned, according to knowledgeable sources, as his reason for resigning.

INDIAN MEDICINE: Two militant Indian leaders appeared the other day at the Interior Department, the citadel of the white bureaucracy they have been warring against. They had been invited by Interior Secretary Rogers Morton to present their views. The conscientious Morton, who is slowly recovering from cancer, impressed the Indians with his sincerity. At the end of the interview, LaNada Boyer, a Bannock-Shoshone, quietly pulled from her purse twigs of cedar. Burning cedar is the age-old Indian ritual for good health. As Morton nodded appreciatively, the Indian woman fanned the fragrant smoke toward him, saying softly, "This is for your health."

SHORT MEMORIES: The nation's militant conservationists sometimes have memories as short as their tempers. One of the Senate's most tireless fighters for the environment has been Frank Moss, D-Utah, who has sponsored every major air and water pollution bill that has passed in the last 15 years. He has also cosponsored the Wilderness Act, the Wild Rivers Act and the Outdoor Recreation Act. Now, however, Moss has backed measures to allow a water back-up from Lake Powell that will increase the water beneath Rainbow Bridge National Monument. Although it is dubious that the water would structurally damage the bridge, Moss is being nastily attacked by some of his fair-weather friends in the environmental movement.

EAVESDROPPING EXEMPTION: The telephone of Defense Department employes are subject to eavesdropping at any time. The Civilian and military employes can only grit their teeth and swear: They must accept the snooping as a condition of employment. But recently, Brig. Gen. F. H. Cutrona, the Pentagon information director, announced in a memo that 42 of the thousands of Pentagon phones would be "exempt" from surveillance. These are the phones of reporters in the Department of Defense prress room. Now that reporters have been assured their phones are tap-free, they expect a flood of officers asking to use them to make personal calls.

A conservative view

Pipeline delay not desired

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — A group of Midwestern legislators, pressing for regional advantage at the expense of national needs, has managed once more to delay construction of the trans-Alaskan pipeline. The project is bogged down in committee, and faces a bruising fight when it reaches the floor.

Kilpatrick

The story is one long chronicle of frustration. If construction of this pipeline had been started three years ago, when its prospective builders were ready to go, the nation might now be benefiting from one to two million barrels of oil per day. We would be significantly less dependent upon supplies from the Middle East. Our balance of payments would not be quite so dangerously out of kilter. At least two billion dollars could have been saved in construction costs.

All this is what might have been. Much of the exasperating delay has resulted from the opposition of the eco-freaks, those conservationist zealots whose frenzy carries them, like the Jesus freaks, beyond faith to fanaticism, beyond dedication to obsession. Their spokesmen have conjured up damage to the migratory habits of the caribou; they have expounded pathetically upon the harm that a four-foot pipeline would do to hundreds of thousands of square miles of tundra; they have raised vague fears of earthquakes, melting ice, oil spills, and harm to polar bears, fish, and to 320 species of arctic birds.

I do not mean to challenge the sincerity of these conservationists. It is their judgment and their sense of priorities that compel a blunt rejoinder: The United States urgently needs Alaska's North Slope oil. We have to have it. Further delays cannot be condoned.

Yet further delays are in prospect. On February 9, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia enjoined construction of the pipeline on a single point: The Mineral Leasing Act of 1920 limits rights-of-way on Federal lands to 25 feet on either side of a pipeline. The proposed line from the North Slope to Valdez would have required 70 to 75 feet on either side at certain points. It is puzzling, in retrospect, that this obstacle was not comprehended and resolved long ago.

On February 21, less than two weeks after the court ruling, Alaska's Senators Mike Gravel and Ted Stevens introduced a bill to overcome the objection. They proposed to cut all the red tape in a single blow, by declaring that the bulky environmental impact statement, long ago supplied by the Department of the Interior, filled all requirements of law. Similar legislation was offered in the House.

We are now into June, and nothing has happened. Instead, the old alternative of a trans-Canadian route has been revived. Senators Walter Mondale of Minnesota, Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, and Birch Bayh of Indiana are insisting that the Canada plan be studied anew. On the House side, John B. Anderson of Illinois is blandly urging that an Alaskan route not be "cannonaded" into law — cannonaded, mind you, after five years of discussion. Les Aspin of Wisconsin, leader of the opposition, finds the environmental and economic advantages of a Canadian pipeline "so obvious" that no other route can be justified.

William E. Simon, deputy secretary of the Treasury, demolished these arguments in a recent statement. Building a Canadian line, he said, "would delay receipt of vitally needed Alaska crude oil by from three to five years." The Canadian line would be much longer; it would have to cross twelve major rivers; it would cost twice as much; it could not be built without prolonged negotiations with Ottawa, in which the Canadians understandably would insist upon protecting their own domestic concerns.

The Nixon administration many times has cited the "urgent necessity" for building the trans-Alaskan line. The state's spokesmen in Congress, who know and love their wilderness area, have pleaded for prompt action. Every national interest, it seems to me, demands that we get on with this job — and get on with it now.

Harper 'Practices' As KC Royals Toil

BOSTON (AP) — Tommy Harper of the Boston Red Sox is known in the baseball trade as a guy "who comes to play." He shrugs off injuries which would put many office workers in bed for days.

Eddie Popowski, a Boston coach, once pinchhit in an Eastern League playoff game while wearing a cast. Harper is a throwback to 59-year-old Pop's breed and would do the same if needed.

Harper, a 32-year-old outfielder, is taped nightly from the waist down by trainer Buddy LeRoux and takes his place in left field. He can barely walk around the clubhouse because of a severe groin muscle pull, but somehow turns on speed once the game starts.

The Red Sox held a comfortable 7-3 lead over the Kansas City Royals before 10,653 fans Monday night. There was no need to gamble, but Harper continued to show his hustle as the Red Sox went on to a 9-3 victory.

After walking with two out in the eighth, Harper took off for second. He had the base stolen, but Mario Guerrero grounded a single through the hole to shallow right. Harper continued on to third, then spotted rightfielder Steve Hovley holding the ball. He turned on the speed and scored easily, on a single.

"Sure, I hurt, but I have to go when I see the opportunity," Harper said. "That's the only way I know how to play. I've always had good speed and I have to use it. I don't think about sliding—until after the game. If we win, though, the pain isn't as bad."

Harper, who has stolen 14 bases in 16 tries, had plenty of company in the "hero" department as the Red Sox snapped Kansas City's four-game winning streak and prevented the Royals from moving to within one-half game of the Chicago White Sox in the American League West.

Unheralded Rick Miller had a single, double and a triple, scored three runs and now is batting .329 in 15 games as a regular.

Catcher Carlton Fisk walked with the bases loaded in the third and then hit a three-run homer, his 10th, in the sixth.

Southpaw John Curtis improved his record to 3-5 with relief help from Don Newhauser, who didn't allow a hit after getting out of a bases-loaded jam with two out in the seventh.

The Red Sox try to make it two in a row against the Royals tonight, sending right-hander Marty Pattin, 4-7, to the mound. Pattin is due to be opposed by Dick Drago, 5-4.

royals have 2 top candidates

by vaughn hart

The Kansas City Royals, somewhat of a surprise in the American League West, have two excellent chances to place starters on the AL's All-Star squad, July 24, with hard-hitting first baseman John Mayberry and center fielder Amos Otis.

But the two will have to win their respective vote battles over some pretty stiff competition.

Mayberry, currently leading the league in three offensive categories, should find himself locking heads with Chicago's Dick Allen and surprise Yankees' first-sacker Ron Blomberg.

Mayberry, whose defense at first base many times overshadows his offensive output, was leading the league in home runs (13), runs batted in (52) and runs scored (37) after Monday night's nationally televised game with the Red Sox in Boston.

He's more than halfway rbi-wise with his total output of 1972, when he knocked in 100 runs. His batting average, however, is lower than his chief rivals for the all-star slot. In that department the 23-year-old slugger is carrying a .300 mark.

Allen trails Mayberry by only one in the AL's home run derby and leads the league in doubles with 13. He's scored 30 runs and is among the league leaders with 53 hits. His .321 average is considerably higher than Mayberry, but his 32 rbi are 18 less than those of his Kansas City counterpart.

Blomberg, not nearly as sure-handed defensively as Mayberry or Allen, has asserted himself as one of the AL's top hitters. In fact, he leads the league with a mark of .396. Blomberg, 25, has had only 40 hits, but on the other hand, had come to bat only 101 times through Sunday's game, a contest he watched from the bench, while veteran Matty Alou held down first base.

Blomberg is the least likely of the three to get the all-star bid at first, that is unless the Yankee fans start stuffing the ballot box, which no doubt will be the case in Kansas City and Chicago as well.

He's scored only 16 runs and has only 23 rbi. Blomberg hasn't hit for power and has only three homers.

A similar race is also expected to be waged for center field position between Otis, Mickey Stanley of Detroit and New York's Bobby Murcer.

Otis is hitting just below the .300 level (.296), but he's had more chances than anyone else in the league with 219. He tops the league in hits with 64 and is second to Mayberry with 34 runs scored. Otis also has 29 rbi to his credit and eight home runs.

Murcer is hitting .291, has 32 runs, 10 homers and is second to Otis in the league with 57 hits.

Stanley, who at 31 is considerably older than Otis (26) and Murcer (27), has a batting average of .244 with his 39 hits in 160 trips. He's knocked in 21 runs and scored 19 himself. All are outstanding in the field defensively, with each being a past golden glove winner.

Of All Times For an Ace

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Shooting a hole-in-one ought to make a golfer feel good, but Michael Paige, a Beverly Hills band leader, had mixed feelings about the ace he sank with a three iron on the 175-yard 12th hole at Hidden Valley Golf Club Monday.

Had he done it during his rounds in Harrah's 15th Invitational Golf Tournament Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday, he would have won a $20,000 Rolls-Royce automobile. For his practice round shot Monday he earned only sympathy.

Redlands Coach Named Assistant

REDLANDS, Calif. (AP) — Coach Ted Runner of the University of Redlands has been named assistant manager of a United States track team that will compete in Africa and Europe this summer, the Amateur Athletic Union says.

The American squad will take part in a series of dual meets from July 6 through August 8.

Linda's Chief To Skip Belmont

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The horse who was once thought able to beat Secretariat will not be on the track at Belmont Saturday to stop the latest horse racing sensation from winning a Triple Crown.

Neil Hellman, the owner of Linda's Chief, said Monday that he has decided not to enter his horse in the final leg of the Triple Crown. The Albany-owned horse was a convincing winner in the $55,000 Withers Stakes at Belmont last week.

Hellman said he hopes to enter Linda's Chief against Secretariat in a future race.

Last year at Saratoga, Linda's Chief was favored to beat Secretariat as a 2-year-old. But Secretariat came on to win. It was the only time in the Virginia-bred horse's career that another horse was favored to win.

Area College Stars On Second Squad

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Missouri Western's Tom O'Brien, Steve Heying of Wayne, Neb., State, and Joe Shaddix of Southeastern Oklahoma State have been named to the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics All-America baseball second team.

O'Brien is an outfielder, Heying an infielder, and Shaddix a catcher.

Extra Tutoring

Stan Smith Finds Right Track in Rome

ROME (AP) — Stan Smith's slump in the French Open last week continued through the first set of his $135,000 Italian Tennis Championship match with Australian Phil Dent before the top-seeded American star got back on the winning track.

Smith beat Dent 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 in a second round match after losing his service in the first game of the match. He bounced back with a service break in the fourth game to tie 2-2, but had his service broken again in the ninth which cost him the first set.

Smith overcame trouble in both the second and third sets. In the third set, the Pasadena, Calif., native rallied when behind 2-2 and then broke Dent's service in the ninth game before mastering his big serve in the 10th game to end the match.

Smith, seeded first in the French Open last week, lost to Tom Okker of the Netherlands.

In women's singles play, Evonne Goolagong of Australia took a second-round victory over Lucia Bassi of Italy 6-1, 6-2.

Third Attempt Fails

Lew Hargis Misses By 3 in Sectional

(Democrat-Capital Service)

KANSAS CITY, Kan. — Lew Hargis, Sedalia Country Club golf professional missed on his third chance at the United States Open, but if it's any consolation, he's getting closer.

Monday at Indian Hills Country Club, where he finished two weeks ago with a 145 in the qualifying round, he shot back-to-back 74's for a 148. But that was three strokes back of the fifth qualifying spot.

Hargis was the only Sedalia entry to earn a berth in Monday's sectional, which saw St. Louis professional Joe Dodich fire a 142 for medalist honors. The other four qualifying spots went to amateur Rocky Waitt, Wichita, Kan. (143); Kansas City Country Club pro Stan Thirsk, who also came in at 143; at 144 was Jim Cochran, St. Louis.

The final spot went to Omaha's John Frillman, who won a playoff over a pair of amateurs Tom Sleckmann, Millard, Neb., and Brent Buckman of Mirror Lake, near Kansas City.

The five sectional qualifiers will now advance to the United States Open, which will open next week at Oakmont Country Club, near Pittsburgh, Pa.

Hargis felt his downfall came on the par-four eighth hole in the afternoon round, when he took a triple-bogey seven.

"I had just three-putted six and seven, and knew I had to have a birdie, but as it turned out it was the wrong move," Hargis recalled Tuesday morning. "I hit the ball into the trees and just couldn't get out ... I probably shouldn't have gambled, but I needed to make up a stroke."

Hargis was paired in the competition with Waitt, the Wichita, Kan. amateur who qualified with a 143.

"Unfortunately none of his play rubbed off on me ... he shot an excellent first round 69 and followed it up with a 74," Hargis concluded.

Play was halted during the second and third rounds due to rain. Hargis said he thought the weather had little or no effect on his game on the par 70, 6,500-yard Indian Hills course.

In other sectionals across the country, veteran pros Sam Snead and Fred Marti, William Campbell (seven-time U.S. Walker Cup member) and Dean Refram, a former member of the PGA tour, were among the qualifiers.

Snead and Marti shot 3-under-par 70-69 — 139s over 36 holes at the 6,700-yard Charlotte, N.C., Country Club course to lead 39 qualifiers.

Trailing by one stroke were fellow touring pros Hale Irwin and Charlie Sifford. Frank Beard, Hubert Green, Tom Shaw and Gibby Gilbert had 141 totals.

Among those qualifying in Charlotte was Jim Colbert of Kansas City, who won in a playoff at 146 that saw eight players going for five spots. One of the three casualties was Gay Brewer.

Among the name players who did not qualify were Doug Sanders, Ken Venturi, Labron Harris, Steve Melnyk, Bert Greene and Bob Lunn. Campbell, a 50-year-old amateur, had a one-under 141 to lead five Cincinnati sectional qualifiers for the Open. The Huntington, W. Va., golfer fired 71-70 to edge Tim O'Hern of Goshen, Ky., by a stroke. It was Campbell's 13th Open qualification.

Refram and amateur John Phillips of Springfield, Ill., led seven Chicago qualifiers with identical 71-71 — 142 scores. Bill Ogden of Glenview, Ill., had a 148, two shots short of qualifying, after having gotten into the U.S. Open 14 times in the last 18 years.

Gene Torres, Dow Finsterwald and Ed Byman were the three qualifiers in the Denver sectional.

Torres led the scorers with a 70-69 — 139 at Cherry Hills Country Club, tour veteran Finsterwald shot a two-under-par 76-65 — 141 and Byman, the only amateur qualifying, had to go five holes of sudden-death to clinch his berth after tying for third with two other players at 143.

Veteran touring pro John Schlee of Dallas was the only player to break par in Texas sectional play, shooting a one-under-par 141 to head the list of six qualifiers.

Schlee, the current Hawaiian Open champion, beat runners-up Kurt Cox of San Antonio and Ron Weber of Houston by seven shots.

Never Taken a Lesson

Young Texan Shines In British Amateur

PORTHCAWL, Wales (AP) — A blond American youngster named Phil Halton has surged into contention for the British Amateur Golf championship, and an official of the Royal and Ancient Club said: "He has one of the best swings since Jack Nicklaus."

Halton, a 22-year-old from Waco, Tex., beat England's Harry Hopkins 4 and 3 Monday in the first round of the tournament over the 6,605-yard, par 72 Royal Porthcawl links on the coast of Wales.

The Texan, who never has taken a lesson but has a natural aptitude for the game, appeared one of the strongest entries seen in the amateur classic for years.

The British Amateur is match play over 18 holes until next Saturday's 36-hole final on the rolling Porthcawl links.

Because of the 200-plus entries, the first round was carried over until today.

On Monday, 17 out of 30 U.S. starters reached the second round. Another 20 U.S. hopefuls set out in the first round today.

One American who doesn't give up made another stab at the title—and lost for the 23rd time in the first round. Frank Strafaci of Miami lost 3 and 2 to Thomas J. Culligan of San Mateo and said:

"After 23 years playing in this championship, I'm quite familiar with the feeling of losing yet again in the first round. I'm not disappointed this time. I didn't shoot well and my second shots were no good but I was still happy with my game."

Six Presbyterian Entries Advance

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Presbyterian College of South Carolina was in a good position today to challenge the two favored teams, East Texas and Redlands University of California, for the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics tennis title.

All six of Presbyterian's players, led by top seeded Milan Kofol, were still in the tournament which went into its second day.

After a first round bye, Kofol defeated Tommy Stewart of Columbus, Ga., 6-0, 6-2 Monday when some matches were delayed by day long rains and others were postponed.

East Texas suffered a blow when one of its stars, fourth seeded Kan Jantz, could not make the trip because of a prior job commitment and will not be around to help his team defend its championship.

Jantz defaulted to Don Finkelstein of Claremont-Mudd, Calif.

Fifth seeded Ralph Hart, Kofol's teammate, routed Tom Cooke of George Mason, Va., 6-1, 6-0.

John Brush of Redlands, second seeded, disposed of Craig Kohls of Bethany, Kan., 6-1, 6-2.

Sedalia Visits Marshall In Ban Johnson Action

Marshall, which has yet to lose in Central Missouri Ban Johnson League action this season, and the team that sports the best record in the 10-team loop, will go after its fifth win in a row tonight at 8 p.m., when it hosts Sedalia.

Marshall by virtue of a doubleheader victory Sunday over California, is 4-0 and heads the western division. Sedalia is 1-1 and hasn't seen action since last week's loss to Boonville. The Merchants were slated to open their home season Sunday in Liberty Park Stadium, but were postponed due to wet grounds.

Two other games are on tap tonight; those find Centralia (1-2) at Jefferson City (1-1) and California (0-4) at Boonville (2-1).

All 10 teams see action Thursday.

'Nasty' Nastase Shoots For Men's Singles Title

PARIS (AP) — Ilie Nastase of Romania beat Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia 6-3, 6-3, 6-0 today to win the French Open tennis title for the first time.

PARIS (AP) — They've called Ilie Nastase a tennis wizard, a clown, a prima donna and just plain "Nasty." But today, he could prove himself to be the world's No. 1 clay court player.

Nastase, a 26-year-old Romanian, faces Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia for the men's singles title of the French Open Tennis Championships.

The tournament at Roland Garros Stadium is rated the world's top clay court event, and it's fast becoming the stamping ground for the East Europeans. This is the third all-European men's final in the event in four years.

Nastase stroked his way past Tom Gorman of Seattle in a semifinal Monday—just as he did in the semis at Forest Hills and the Davis Cup final in Bucharest last year. This time, the scores were 6-3, 6-4, 6-1.

Pilic hit top form in conquering the rising young Italian, Adriano Panatta, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2. At 33, the Yugoslav lefthander is in a major tournament final for the first time.

The match was a big disappointment for the 22-year-old Panatta, who beat Nastase in last year's Paris tournament and again in the final of the British Hard Court Championships this year. The Italian had looked forward to another meeting in today's final.

"I'm not at all sure Nastase will win the title," Panatta said. "On that form, Pilic could beat Nastase or anyone else in the world."

Six-hitter for Dave Roberts

Houston Astros' pitcher Dave Roberts is congratulated after hurling a six-hit shutout against the Philadelphia Phillies Monday night in the Astrodome. Roberts was helped offensively by the 12th home run of the season by Jim Wynn. The Astros ended a four-game losing streak with the 7-0 decision.

Harrelson Suffers Fracture

NY Mets' Injury List Grows

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Would you like to have Willie Mays in center field, Cleon Jones in left, John Milner at first base, Bud Harrelson at shortstop and Jerry Grote behind the plate?

So would the New York Mets.

The New Yorkers' incredible run of injuries continued along with their recent slide Monday night when Harrelson suffered a fractured bone in his left hand during a 5-0 loss to the Cincinnati Reds and became the latest candidate for the disabled list.

Jones and Grote are currently on the list while Milner and Mays are recent removals, although Mays has yet to see action since coming off.

It was the fifth consecutive defeat for Jon Matlack, 2-8. The Rookie of the Year in 1972 hasn't won since April 28. Nor has he escaped the injury bugaboo. He suffered a hairline skull fracture when hit by a line drive last month and missed a couple of starts.

Elsewhere in the National League, the San Francisco Giants whipped the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-2 and the Houston Astros blanked the Philadelphia Phillies 7-0.

In the only American League action, the Milwaukee Brewers edged the Oakland A's 2-0 and the Boston Red Sox pounded the Kansas City Royals 9-3.

Tito Fuentes and Garry Maddox drove in three runs apiece while Tom Bradley hurled the Giants past the Pirates, stretching their winning streak to five games and increasing their lead in the West Division to three games over Los Angeles.

Bradley, 5-2, blanked the Pirates until the bottom of the ninth when they scored on a triple by Dave Cash, an infield out and Willie Stargell's 16th home run.

Dave Roberts fired a six-hitter and Jim Wynn hit his 12th home run as the Astros drubbed the Phillies and ended a losing streak at four games while extending Philadelphia's to seven.

Jim Colborn pitched a five-hitter and Bob Coluccio hit a homer to lead the Brewers over Ken Holtzman and the Oakland A's for their fourth straight win.

Carlton Fisk drove in four runs with a homer and bases-loaded walk to pace the Red Sox to a nationally televised victory over Kansas City.

John Mayberry drove in his 51st and 52nd runs for Kansas City but the Royals were hurt by an error, three consecutive walks and a hit batter as the Red Sox scored four times in the third inning. Fisk hit a three-run homer in the sixth.

Rangers Select Pitcher

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Texas Rangers selected David Clyde, a left-handed pitcher from Westchester High School in Houston, as the No. 1 pick in the major league baseball's summer free agent draft today.

Clyde, an 18-year-old, 6-foot, 180-pounder, tossed nine no-hitters during his high school career.

Philadelphia followed and chose catcher John Stearns from the University of Colorado. Milwaukee then took shortstop Robin Yount of Woodland Hills, Calif.

San Diego selected Dave Winfield, a University of Minnesota outfielder while Cleveland picked Glen Tufts, a first baseman from Bridgewater, Mass.

San Francisco tabbed shortstop Johnnie Lemaster, Paintsville, Ky., and California went for outfielder William Taylor, Savannah, Ga. Montreal took Gary Roenicke, a third baseman-outfielder from West Covina, Calif.

Kansas City chose right-handed pitcher Lewis Olson from Alamo, Calif. Pat Rockett, a shortstop from San Antonio, Tex., was then picked by Atlanta. Minnesota went for lefty pitcher Ed Bane of Arizona State University.

St. Louis took third baseman Benny Edelen of Gracemount, Okla. The New York Yankees chose right-handed pitcher Doug Heinhold of Victoria, Tex. Then the New York Mets went from Lee Mazzilli, an outfielder from Brooklyn, N.Y. Baltimore chose righty pitcher Mike Parrott of Camarillo, Calif.

First baseman Jerry Tabb, University of Tulsa, was selected by the Chicago Cubs. Boston landed shortstop Billy Cox of Midwest City, Okla. Los Angeles chose catcher Ted Farr of Spokane, Wash, while Detroit tabbed infielder Charles Bates, Compton, Calif.

Shortstop Calvin Portley of Longview, Tex., was the Houston pick. The Chicago White Sox took catcher Steve Swisher of Ohio University. Oakland chose Randy Scarbery, a right-handed pitcher from Southern California.

Pittsburgh completed first round by going for catcher Steve Nicosia, North Miami Beach, Fla.

Cornell Rowing Coach Resigns

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Todd Jesdale, Cornell University varsity rowing coach since 1971, resigned Monday to enter private business, according to university officials.

Jesdale, 33, succeeded Stork Sanford, and in his first season, Jesdale's varsity eight-oared crew scored an upset victory in the national intercollegiate rowing championships at Syracuse, N.Y.

Dick Jauron Wins The Mallory Award

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Yale University's highest annual athletics recognition, the Mallory Award, will go this year to football star Dick Jauron, acting Athletic Director Carmen Cozza said Monday.

Jauron of Swampscott, Mass. also starred in baseball, but won his greatest recognition as a record-breaking running back.

Jauron was named to Kodak and Walter Camp All-America teams and broke nine Yale football records including most yards gained in total offense and most touchdowns in a career.

Major league pitchers last year had a 37 per cent strikeout ratio. Regulars were under 15 per cent.

Second Title Bout on Card

$2 Million Pact Expected For Foreman, Roman Fight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — George Foreman's first pay day as heavyweight champion of the world is scheduled Sept. 1 in Tokyo when he meets little-known Joe "King" Roman of Puerto Rico.

The undefeated 24-year-old boxer from nearby Hayward received $375,000 on Jan. 22 when he upset Joe Frazier with a second round knockout to claim the title. His next purse probably will be double that amount, his trainer and manager, Dick Sadler indicated Monday.

Sadler and Foreman will probably go to Japan next month to sign final contracts and settle the amount of the purse. Sponsors have put up $2 million, which includes money for a second title fight on the same program, but have given no breakdown of how it will be split.

The other championship bout at the 15,000-seat Budokan Hall will be between Mexico's Ricardo Arredondo, World Boxing Council junior lightweight titleholder, and Japan's Morito Kashiwaba. The heavyweight fight will be televised throughout the world via satellite beginning at 11 p.m., EDT.

Sadler said that Foreman will begin light workouts this week in an Oakland gym, "shaking loose to stay in shape."

The champ has fought only exhibitions since Jan. 22 and his weight, 218, for the Frazier fight, is up to 235.

"He'll be down to 218 for the Roman fight," Sadler promised.

Roman is ranked as the No. 10 contender by the WBC. Most of the higher ranked heavyweights, including Frazier, Ellis, Muhammad Ali, Ken Norton, Joe Bugner and Ron Lyle, already have fights scheduled this summer.

Feature Title Bout On Tuesday's Card

A Central States championship bout between title-holder Bob Brown and challenger Danny Little Bear, tops Tuesday's professional wrestling card at Convention Hall. The two will meet in a best-of-three falls match. Brown defeated Little Bear for the crown two weeks ago.

Black Angus will go against Tokyo Joe in the best-of-three falls semifinal bout, while Mike George opposes the Masked Terror in the special event.

Paired in the opener are Jim Dalton and Hillbilly Vic, which gets under way at 8:30 p.m.

Three Wage Tight Battle for Lead

Only 25 points separates the top three drivers in the season's points race at the E-Z Speedway Go-Kart Track.

Chris Schwermer, Sedalia, leads crosstown rival Bruce Mowry by 15 points, 225-210, while Kansas City's Rusty Schworer is only 10 behind in third place.

Schwermer captured both the fast feature and the fast heat in Saturday night's action to take over the lead. Schworer added to his point total by winning the trophy dash.

Racing is held every Saturday night at 7:30 p.m.

Seattle Fans Cheer Chinese Gym Team

SEATTLE (AP) — A gymnastics team from the People's Republic of China has finished a goodwill mission across the United States by receiving a standing ovation from more than 5,000 fans after a performance at Hec Edmundson Pavilion.

The exhibition Monday night, featuring China's top gymnasts and a group of Seattle-area performers, was capped by a musical conclusion as the Chinese sang and danced to the accompaniment of Chou Chia-sheng, the visitors' pianist.

The eight men and eight women began their tour last month in New York and visited three other U.S. cities before arriving in Seattle last Saturday.

"It was a vivid expression of deep friendship," said one of the Chinese coaches, Hsu Jen-chieh, through an interpreter. "We are also looking forward for gymnasts of the United States and other sportsmen to visit China."

The Chinese will remain in Seattle until Thursday, when they leave for Vancouver, B.C., and the final stop of their North American tour.

International Friendship

Chinese and United States gymnasts raised their hands in a friendship gesture as part of the opening ceremony of a Seattle gymnastics exhibition by the national team of the Peoples Republic of China Monday. The exhibition was the last on a two-week, five-city tour by the five-man, five-woman Chinese team.

Howe and Sons Deal With Houston Aeros

HOUSTON (AP) — Gordie Howe & Sons opened business with the Houston Aeros today on a deal that could give the World Hockey Association team a corner on the hockey talent market in the Howe clan.

The Aeros drafted the former National Hockey League great's sons Marty, 19, and Mark, 18, in the recent WHA draft and now Howe is talking about coming out of retirement to play on the same team with his sons.

"When Marty and Mark were coming up, people always used to ask me if I could hold on long enough to play with them," the former Detroit Red Winger said after arriving here with his entire family Monday.

"I may be pushing the issue a little right now, but it's certainly worth the effort if it comes about."

Howe, 45, retired from the NHL two years ago with an armful of NHL records to become a vice president in the Red Wings organization. Because of an NHL rule, Mark and Marty could not play in the NHL until they are 20, meaning another two years for Mark.

Then along came the Aeros and gave Howe a chance to fulfill one of the few dreams he couldn't accomplish in the NHL. Howe came to Houston over the objections of many in the NHL who accused him of turning his back on the league that supported him.

Howe admitted he hasn't kept in shape the way he did during the rigorous NHL regular season. But he hasn't been completely inactive either.

"We have an alumni team of old-timers and we play a schedule of 30 games a year," Howe said. "But I'll have to admit it's not like the demanding schedule of the NHL."

Howe said it was 90 per cent certain that Mark and Marty would play for the Aeros next season but the percentage on his playing wasn't quite as high.

South had no trouble counting up eight tricks. They were right there for the taking. The ninth might be around somewhere, but there was no apparent place that it could come from.

Of course, there might be a doubleton queen-jack of spades, but South didn't believe in miracles.

He ducked the first two hearts as a matter of general practice. A third heart was led and East splattered on the 10 of clubs.

All of a sudden, South had some hope. He won that third heart; led a diamond to dummy and played the seven of clubs. East covered with the eight and was allowed to hold the trick.

A club was led back and South was back on lead with his ninth trick right in sight provided West held both the queen and jack of spades.

South led the 10 of spades with every intention of letting it ride, but West covered with the queen.

South won in dummy and cashed the rest of the diamonds. West had to throw a heart on the last diamond whereupon South threw him in with the last heart to force West to lead a spade and give South that ninth trick.

Franklin-Jones Conflict Continues on Milder Tone

The recent series of confrontations between Republican Mayor Jerry Jones and Democratic Third Ward Councilman Carl Franklin continued Monday evening at the City Council meeting in a somewhat milder form than has been seen in recent weeks.

The feud erupted March 17 when Jones charged council Democrats were complying with the wishes of alleged party bosses on tabling an ordinance to establish a full-time mayor's position. At that time, Franklin became angry and indicated the charges were untrue.

The May 21 council meeting saw a renewal of the disagreement, although concerning a different topic, when Franklin implied that Jones had invested city funds without consulting the council and without the proper authority.

Jones claimed he had invested only surplus funds resulting from federal revenue sharing and excess sales tax revenue as was agreed by the council. He also said that the council was informed at the following meeting each time such surplus funds were invested.

Monday's meeting saw the mayor read a list of over 15 bond issues in which the council directly made the decision to invest the funds prior to use. He also explained that a number of city trustee boards, such as the Hospital Board, Water Board and Crown Hill Cemetery Board, invest their respective monies.

Jones revealed that surplus funds invested just since January of this year had brought $15,000 in interest and that various other funds invested had netted $106,000 for the city.

Jones released the information in an effort to answer implications that he has not consulted the council about investing city funds.

Franklin, in defense of his statements of two weeks ago, said he did not accuse Jones of making unwise or illegal investments but said it would have been better if the council had been consulted.

Jones answered that the council was told each time such an investment of surplus funds was made.

Franklin admitted that the council was told of the investments after they had been made but said that the council was left ignorant about where the money was invested or why.

Jones said the surplus funds were invested at the bank that offered the highest rate of interest. Franklin attempted to dismiss that by asking why one bank would offer a higher savings account rate than another, turning to Councilman Don Broaddus of the First Ward for an opinion. Broaddus, real estate officer at Sedalia Bank and Trust Co., replied that a bank might offer a higher rate "depending on how bad they want it (the account.)"

City Must Revise Its Contribution

"Actually, what this boils down to is that we're playing the numbers game with them (federal Department of Housing and Urban Development — HUD)."

That was the comment of Mayor Jerry Jones at the conclusion of his explanation of the latest round of community center dealings with HUD. Jones explained the most recent development to the City Council at the regular Monday evening meeting.

The city must officially revise its financial contribution on the community center because HUD refuses to allow St. Patrick's Catholic Church to make an "in-kind" contribution to the proposed community center.

The church originally asked a $130,000 payment from the city for the old St. Patrick's elementary school at Fourth and Washington and has stuck to the price. Local appraisal figured the building's worth at $166,000, which would have meant the church would make a $36,000 in-kind contribution. But HUD rejected the appraisal figures and required new appraisals be made according to federal specifications.

The new appraisals, acceptable to HUD, put the building's worth at $185,700, which would have made the church's in-kind contribution $55,700. But HUD then revealed that it would not allow such an in-kind contribution, forcing the city to rearrange its official participation figures.

Although the agreement is only verbal, it has been decided that the city will write a $185,700 check to pay for the building (to satisfy HUD) and St. Patrick's will turn around and write the city a $55,700 check as a contribution to the center.

When asked what else the city might have to face in the way of delay on the center, Jones replied he knew of little else HUD could find wrong with the project.

Non-Partisan Role Pledged For Fair

Ron Jones, Missouri State Fair secretary, repeated his earlier statements that politics was being de-emphasized in connection with Fair operations this year during a speech at the regular meeting of the Rotary Club at noon Monday at Bothwell Hotel.

Jones noted that people already employed before he became secretary to conduct this year's Fair are qualified and will be retained. In hiring new people, he said that consideration will not be given to a person's political affiliation, but only to their experience and ability. In addition, Jones said, Fair management will not use its position to cause financial support to any Fair program by those people who have contracts to operate businesses at the Fair, or from those who have service contracts in connection with the Fair.

In discussing the 1973 Missouri Fair advertising, Jones called attention to this year's slogan, "Come and See in '73." He stated that more than a million grocery bags used by food markets; more than a million egg cartons used by egg producers, and plastic milk cartons used by five large dairies will carry the Missouri State Fair message. Also, he noted that a major potato chip company will have a Fair message on its bag during the month of July.

In commenting on the Fair's operational budget, he called attention to the fact that it was reduced and is $200,000 less than the amount appropriated for the 1972 exposition. He said he was able to cut expenses by slightly more than $100,000 by reducing through negotiation the cost of entertainment and by reducing the horse show premiums by about $25,000. Further cost reductions will be more difficult, he noted.

Although the State Fair catalog lists the admittance prices for this year at $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children, the actual admissions will be $1.00 and 50 cents, respectively, as last year, because the legislature would not approve the increases, Jones said.

In response to a question concerning a review of the charges made to Fair concessioners, Jones stated that concession rights had been producing between $70,000 and $80,000 per year. This year as a result of the review those rights will produce from 10 per cent to 15 per cent more, Jones said.

In an effort to house all the cattle in the cattle barns, Jones said the Fair will have a split cattle show which will shorten the time for the animals and exhibitors to about two days. By splitting the shows, the barns will have greater use and the need for hot exhibition tents will be greatly eliminated, he said.

This year the box seats in the grandstand will have a price tag of $4.50 for evening entertainment. All other grandstand seats will be free as they have been for the past several years. There are about 400 box seats, he noted.

The speaker was introduced by Jack Osborn, June program chairman.

The meeting was conducted by Charles Hofheins, club president, who announced that installation of new officers would be held at a June 25 night meeting of the club and that arrangements would be announced at the next meeting.

Birthday greetings were sung for Robert Phillips, Walter Savio and Larry Callis, who observe June birthdates. Singing was led by Merrill Strombom and piano accompaniment was by Mrs. Keith Maynard. Invocation was given by Dr. Ron Shuler.

Guests introduced by Jess Walthall were Clay Jent, a member of the Warrensburg Rotary Club; Fred Biggs, with Del Heckart and Jim Langen, Houston, Tex., with Lloyd Banaka.

Private Pilot Checks Go Into Effect Nov. 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rules making private pilots subject for the first time ever to periodic checks of their flying ability will go into effect Nov. 1.

The rules also will require all applicants who, after Nov. 1, 1974, apply for a commercial pilot's license be instrument rated.

The instrument requirement will not apply to private pilots or to pilots who already possess a commercial license. The Associated Press erroneously reported earlier that all pilots would have to demonstrate their ability to fly by instruments.

The new Federal Aviation Administration rules go into effect Nov. 1 but pilots do not have to qualify under them until Nov. 1, 1974. An FAA spokesman said pilots may qualify under either the new or old rules during the one-year transitional period.

The rules specify that, after Nov. 1, 1974, no person may pilot an aircraft unless within a period of 24 months he:

—Has taken a flight review in an aircraft for which he is rated. That review must be conducted by an appropriately certified instructor or other person designated by the FAA.

—Has a log book endorsed by the person conducting the review, certifying that he has satisfactorily accomplished the flight review.

Although there is no pass-fail grading, flight instructors who feel a pilot may need work can elect not to sign the log book. Pilots who find themselves in that situation may take remedial work from the instructor until he is willing to sign their book or may find themselves an instructor who thinks better of their abilities, the FAA said.

If a pilot has not met the two requirements within 24 months of his last flight review, he will be grounded. However, he may reinstate himself at any time by satisfactorily taking the review.

In contrast to the non-pass-fail nature of the review requirement, applicants for commercial licenses after Nov. 1, 1974, must pass their instrument rating.

If they do not, they will be restricted to carrying paying passengers only during the day and only on flights of no more than 50 miles from their home airports.

The FAA also has increased the 200-hour qualification requirement for commercial pilot certificates to 250 hours, effective Nov. 1, but left the current 40-hour minimum flight time requirement for private pilot certificates unchanged. The 250-hour requirement for commercial certificates includes 10 hours time in complex aircraft.

The FAA also upgraded the requirements of flight instructors.

Currently, any private pilot with 200 hours of flight time can qualify for flight instructor rating. Under the new rules, instructors must possess a commercial license with an instrument rating and have aircraft category and class ratings.

City Park Board Elects Officers for Coming Year

The Sedalia Park Board met Monday night at Convention Hall and elected officers for the coming year.

Jim Grady was re-elected to another term as board president; Ben Pummill was elected vice-president, and Wes Sanders, secretary.

The board heard committee reports including a recreation report from Pummill. He told the board the Thursday night family swimming sessions at the Sedalia Junior High School pool were going well, explaining that about 40 families were attending on the average.

Pummill said about 65 persons had signed for tennis lessons to begin in mid-June. They will be taught by David Porter, it was learned.

The board authorized the reimbursement to the Pettis County Red Cross of an estimated $800 to $1,000 for swimming lessons, the purchase of 13 swimming suits for lifeguards, costing about $60, and interviewing for a park recreational director effective June 18. The board also accepted the offer of local softball players to remodel the diamonds at Hubbard Park. The remodeling will better adapt the fields for softball.

Pummill told the board the recreation committee would need more than double this year's allotment. Due to the expansion of programs and facilities, Pummill said he would need at least $4,700 for the upcoming fiscal year.

Pummill told board members groups had contacted him inquiring about holding canoeing demonstrations at either the Liberty Park lagoon or one of the city pools. Park Superintendent Jack Couts said he doubted that the State Board of Health would permit the practice, and added the canoes could damage the sides of pools.

It was mentioned that a city ordinance concerning boating on the lagoon could prohibit holding the demonstrations there. The matter was tabled pending further investigation.

Marvin Welch was appointed chairman of the finance committee. He will serve with Ray Young and Mrs. Glenn Lewis. The new building committee consists of chairman Bob Beykirch, W. A. McVey and Grady.

Washington Firm Aiding Fight Against Pollution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Would free parking prod you into organizing a car pool to work? How about a book of trading stamps each month for riding in a car pool—or walking or bicycling to work?

The mortgage banking firm of Walker & Dunlop of Washington posed those questions to employes last fall. So far, it reports, more than half are collecting the bonus.

The idea, of course, is to cut down on auto pollution by cutting down on auto usage.

A District of Columbia proposal to charge a $1 daily tax on each auto in a parking lot sparked the car-pool plan.

"In the process of opposing that proposal we decided that business people had to think up other solutions for the downtown parking and air pollution problems," said company spokesman Moira DeWilde.

The $1 tax failed to pass but the car-pool plan kept building.

Of the firm's 90 employes, 51 now participate. Some of those who don't really would like to but can't because they need a car in their work, said Mrs. DeWilde. She reported that seven employes collect the free parking—a sizable item in a city where downtown rates can run $2.50 to $3 and up on a daily basis. The firm pays $25 a month under a package deal with an adjacent lot, Mrs. DeWilde added.

The trading stamps cost $135 a month.

Carol Church is typical of those in the plan. She drove to work alone for 10 years. Every now and then she'd try the bus and give up in despair over the 40 minutes needed to travel the two miles from her home. Walking wasn't the answer and bicycling "proved just too hazardous in all that traffic."

The offer of free parking set her to looking for co-workers who lived nearby. She found one, who now collects the trading stamps. She also found that the slight detour to pick up her passenger cut her driving time slightly — to less than 20 minutes.

Six Die In Traffic Accidents

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least six persons died in Missouri traffic accidents Monday.

An Overland Park, Kan., family of three was killed Monday afternoon in a four-vehicle accident on U.S. 59 about 10 miles north of Oregon, Mo. The highway patrol identified the dead as David T. Burke, 24, his wife, Sharon, 25, and their 3-year-old daughter.

The patrol said a semi-trailer truck went out of control and struck the Burke automobile head-on.

A 7-year-old Barling, Ark., girl, Pauline Roberts, was killed Monday afternoon in a two-car collision in Kansas City North. The girl's mother, Patricia Lufkin, 37, Barling, Ark., was injured in the crash and reported in fair condition at a North Kansas City hospital.

Harvey Rosenberg, 44, Olivette, Mo., was killed in a one-car accident on Highway 67 about 12 miles south of Fredericktown. The patrol said his car apparently skidded out of control and ran off the road during a rainstorm.

Donald Laven Dooley, 56, Aurora, Ill., died in a two-truck collision six miles west of Chillicothe.

Program For Judaic Study Set

KANSAS CITY (AP) — An experimental, three-year program in Judaic studies will begin this fall at the University of Missouri-Kansas City.

The school will use $75,000 in private donations to finance the program, which is said to be the first of its kind in the Great Plains region. The region includes Arkansas, Oklahoma, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota and Western Missouri.

"The opportunity offered for an exchange between the Jewish and non-Jewish communities of information leading to an understanding of the culture, history and traditions contributed by the Jewish people to Western civilization will create a better climate of relationships throughout the region," said Dr. Robert Freilich. A UMKC law professor, he helped design the program. He said the university "has an unparalleled opportunity to become the center of learning in Judaic studies in this region."

The program includes 53 credit hours of study and can lead to a B.A. in Judaic studies. It will be directed by Dr. Joseph P. Schultz, founder of the Jewish studies program at Boston University.

UMKC will evaluate the program during its second year.

Change Of Venue Is Granted

DONIPHAN, Mo. (AP) — A change of venue was granted Monday in Ripley County Circuit Court for two Van Buren, Mo., men, charged with the Jan. 17 extortion-slayings of a bank president and two members of his family.

The chage was granted for Jerry W. Rector, 22, and Lloyd D. Cowin, 20, after attorneys for both men cited extensive prejudice of the local residents. Rector and Cowin are charged with three counts of first-degree murder in connection with the shooting deaths of Robert Kitterman, 43, his wife and their daughter. Cowin will be tried in Springfield and Rector's case will be heard in Hillsboro. No trial dates have been set.

Dallas R. Delay, 33, who entered a guilty plea earlier, is currently serving the first of three consecutive terms of life in prison.

Kitterman, his wife and daughter were murdered after an extortion of the Bank of Grandin where Kitterman was president.

Bridge Section Collapses Over Missouri River

ST. CHARLES, Mo. (AP) — A 6-foot square section of the Interstate 70 bridge spanning the Missouri River collapsed here early Tuesday, forcing the closing of one westbound lane over the heavily traveled structure.

A spokesman for the Missouri Highway Patrol said the hole in the bridge platform, which allows one to peer down to the muddy Missouri, was apparently caused by heavy tractor-trailer truck traffic.

Two eastbound lanes and one other westbound remained open, but Highway Department engineers were surveying the bridge to determine if there was any structural damage.

The bridge is a main commuting artery between St. Charles County and St. Louis.

Cocaine Possession Nets Kansas Man One-Year Sentence

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — A U.S. District Court Judge Monday assessed a one-year prison sentence on James H. Rainen, 20, Overland Park, Kan., for possession of cocaine.

Judge Earl E. O'Connor recommended that Rainen be placed in a treatment institution for four months, then suspended the remainder of the sentence. Judge O'Connor also placed Rainen on three years probation, according to Thomas Hamill, an assistant U.S. attorney.

Glen S. Kelly, another assistant U.S. attorney, said Rainen received a lesser charge and sentence because he cooperated in the prosecution of 13 men allegedly involved in a cocaine ring in Texas.

The 13 defendants included three former Texas Christian University football players.

Three Privates Are Convicted Of Conspiracy

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Three Army privates were convicted Monday of conspiracy to destroy government property.

A federal court jury returned the guilty verdict against Richard Webster Moton, 20, of St. Louis; Harold J. White, 20, Los Angeles, and Tom Williams, 19, of Montgomery, Ala.

The three were accused of a firebombing Nov. 16. Army spokesmen said several thousand dollars damage was caused at the post quarters of 1st Lt. Freddie Lee Howard, and one of Howard's children was injured critically.

Howard testified he was the only black officer in his Ft. Sam Houston unit and he was supposed to handle discipline of all blacks in the outfit.

Rolla Man Killed By Freight Train

ROLLA, Mo. (AP) — An 83-year-old Rolla man, William P. Dunlap, was killed Monday afternoon when he was struck by a Frisco freight train at a downtown railroad crossing.

Police said Dunlap was walking across the tracks and apparently did not hear the train or the crossing signals.

SAFETY SPENDING

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 50 states are spending $120.4 million a year to make the nation's 3.8 million miles of roads and streets safer, says Donald S. Knight, director of the Road Information Program.

State governments have budgeted $85.3 million, and cities and towns are spending $35 million for highway safety programs, he says.

Sympathy Strike By State United Telephone Workers

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A wildcat strike pulled several hundred members of the Communications Workers of America, Local 6372, from their jobs Monday at United Telephone Company installations throughout Missouri.

A union spokesman said the strike was called to express sympathy for striking workers of the union in Arkansas.

Included in the strikers were 55 at Platte City and the Kansas City International Airport. The employes maintain some communications service at K.C.I but a tower supervisor said Monday night that "no trouble is anticipated."

Also participating in the walkout are workers from Rolla, Warrensburg, Clinton and Maryville.

JUST BECAUSE A CAR IS INEXPENSIVE, DOESN'T MEAN IT HAS TO LOOK IT.

At $2826.70, the Fiat 850 Spider is the lowest priced true sports car in America.
What's more, it has all the things a sports car is supposed to have, from front disc brakes to a 4-speed fully synchromeshed transmission.
So, if you're thinking of spending a couple of thousand dollars on a small car, maybe now you'll think of spending it on a small sports car instead.

Dodge Sweptline.
Dodge trucks did more than their part in making Dodge number three in nationwide car and truck sales last year. And for good reasons. You can get the Dodge Sweptline in three different models on two separate wheelbases. All three have great standards such as disc brakes, independent front suspension, double-wall construction, and unique to Dodge trucks, the Electronic Ignition System. See it at the Dodge Boys' today!

IMMEDIATE REPLACEMENT BATTERY GUARANTEE

Montgomery Ward guarantees this battery to be free from defects in material and workmanship. If this battery fails to hold a charge Montgomery Ward will: 1. For 90 days from purchase, replace the battery free. 2. After 90 days, to the end of the guarantee period specified, replace the battery, charging a prorated amount—based on time since purchase—of the regular no trade-in selling price then in effect. Batteries used in commercial vehicles are guaranteed on a similar prorata basis for half of the normally specified term. For service under this guarantee, return battery with evidence of date of purchase to any Montgomery Ward branch.
